BEFORE YOU BEGIN:

Spread a solvent resistant drop cloth covered with newspapers around work area in case of drips or spills. Protect eyes and skin: wear safety goggles and chemical resistant gloves.

Consider speed desired, surface and structure of the piece to be stripped and the type of finish to be stripped before beginning. The information in this brochure should help make your project a success.

Prior to starting your removal project, evaluate what type of finish you will be removing. This is very important for having the proper remover for the job, because not all removers will work on all finishes or surfaces. To help determine which remover is most compatible with your project, keep the following in mind:

Test for latex or oil-based paint:

Take a cotton ball and wet it with acetone – nail polish remover will work. Rub the cotton ball in a circular motion on an inconspicuous part of the surface. If the surface softens, the paint is latex; if no changes are observed, the paint is oil-based.

Test for floor finishes – wax or urethane:

Rub the floor with your clean thumb. If your thumb leaves a streak or smear, you probably have a traditional wax-based floor finish. No mark indicates you probably have a urethane finish. Confirm your results by dampening a white cloth with mineral spirits. Rub the cloth in a circular motion on a discreet section of the floor. If the cloth picks up a shiny residue, the floor is probably waxed. If the cloth remains clean, it is most likely a urethane finish.
